A. What are your rights?

If any of your Personal Data provided to Company is subject to the Data Privacy Laws, you have a number of rights. Further information and advice about your rights can be obtained from the data protection regulator in your country (under the GDPR) or typically from your state Attorney General, under CCPA/CPRPA and other state laws.

Be aware that Company may use reasonable efforts to verify your identity to ensure that it does not disclose Personal Data to an impostor.

Please also be aware that we cannot search, and therefore cannot locate, any stored documents or information that are encrypted in a manner that precludes us from accessing the unencrypted information.

1. The right to object to processing of your Personal Data (the right to opt out)

You have the right to object to certain types of processing, including processing for direct marketing (i.e. if you no longer want to be contacted with potential opportunities from third parties).

This is also known as “the right to be forgotten” and, in simple terms, enables you to request the deletion or removal of your Personal Data where there’s no basis for us to continue to process it or to retain it. This is not a general right to erasure; there are exceptions as stated in the Data Privacy Laws.

(NOTE: Consistent with Data Privacy Laws Company may retain a trivial amount of information, for example, to keep a record of its compliance with your request.)

6. The right to restrict processing

You may have rights to “block” or suppress further use of your Personal Data that Company processes. When processing is restricted, we can still store your Personal Data but may not use it further. We may keep lists of people who have asked for further use of their information to be “blocked” to make sure the restriction is respected in future, but also be aware that upon making this request, we may terminate your account and delete your Personal Data instead of restricting the processing of it.

HOW TO EXERCISE YOUR RIGHT: If you want to restrict, or terminate restrictions, on Company’s processing your Personal Data, please direct your communication to our Privacy Officer as noted below.

7. The right to data portability

You may have rights to obtain and reuse your Personal Data for your own purposes across different services. For example, if you decide to switch to a new provider of services like the Services from Company that you subscribed to, this enables you to move, copy, or transfer your Personal Data.

10. The right to be free from discrimination for exercising your rights.

We cannot deny goods or services, charge you a different price, or provide a different level or quality of goods or services just because you exercised your rights under Data Privacy Laws. However, if you refuse to provide your Personal Data to us or exercise one of your rights, for example, to delete your Personal Data or restrict its processing, and that Personal Data or processing is necessary for us to provide you with services, we may not be able to complete that transaction and we may terminate your access to the Services.

You may report any claim that we have engaged in discrimination against you to an applicable regulator, though we would prefer that you first contact our Privacy Officer as noted below so that we may address your concern.

B. Notice regarding costs to exercise rights.

First, to the extent Data Privacy Laws requires us to take an action without charging you, we will comply with those legal requirements.
